INITIATION

Central Reserve Police Force always reminds us of the great words of its founder Sardar VallabhBhai Patel, spoken on August 11, 1947, while addressing the citizens of Delhi in a pre-independence celebration, “...the main task before India today is to consolidate herself into a well-knit united power”. It was this mission of his, which had occupied his mind while he took the decision on the future of the erstwhile Crown Representative’s Police. His vision of a united India gave birth to Central Reserve Police Force through an Act of Parliament in the year 1949. A decade old CRP assumed its new avatar as CRPF.

As we look back at the rich history of the Central Reserve Police Force and try to comprehend the contribution it made in achieving the integrity of the Nation, a gush of pride fills our heart, as the Force has lived up to the expectations of its founder, the Iron Man of India. Today, it stands as a cornerstone of India’s internal security with versatility as its hallmark. The Force and its brave soldiers, including women warriors, have, on numerous occasions proved their mettle, not only all across the length and breadth of the country, but also on arduous overseas missions that brought laurels to the Nation. Being contemporary, the Nation and the Force have faced the national security concerns together and emerged stronger and better envisioned identities. From guarding the boundaries of the nation against belligerent neighbours in Gujarat, Rajasthan, Ladakh and Arunachal Pradesh, to countering the dacoits of northern plains, from fighting militancy in the open lush green fields of Punjab, to countering insurgency in the hilly tracts of North-East India, from fighting in chilling climatic conditions of Kashmir, to taking on the Red Guerillas in the hot and humid central India, the Force has vindicated its existence not withstanding the deployments across the country for restoring public order as well as for safeguarding critical infrastructure. It has also been instrumental in providing a secure, conducive environment for peaceful and fair elections, thus making its humble contribution in strengthening the pillars of democracy.

With the changing dynamics of national security, which gradually began shifting from the border pillars to the various grids of internal security, the Government of India reposed its firm faith on CRPF and pinned the Internal Security duties on the shoulders of this much dependable, people friendly Force. These newer challenges demanded fresh vision and renewed operational tactics. Accordingly, new specialized wings were conceptualized and raised, namely, RAF (Rapid Action Force) for dealing with communal riots and riot like situations, CoBRA (Commando Battalion for Resolute Action) for anti-guerilla operations in inhospitable woodlands, SDG (Special Duty Group) for providing peripheral security to apex leadership of the country, PDG (Parliament Duty Group) for guarding the temple of democracy and VIP Security Wing for protection of eminent personalities in various fields. Today, CRPF has its footprints in almost all parts of the country, rendering service to the nation, in one form or the other.

The experiential learnings of CRPF present a multi-dimensional array of time tested doctrines and intrinsic strengths that have made this Force progressively dynamic and sustainable under any crisis situation.

This visual depiction of operational doctrines, that marks and re-marks its professional contours, is an attempt to know our past and present for preparing for the future. This envious saga will have rare parallels in the world; where a soldier at one time stands alert to guard the Nation in the face of grave aggressions and on another occasion dedicates himself in giving a helping hand to a victim in an inundated village. The determination of guarding the Nation, even at the cost of his life, can be seen transforming into deep compassion while carrying a pregnant lady from remote areas to the hospital for medical care. His hands do not shake while shooting at an enemy nor waver while administering first-aid to an injured fellow citizen on the street. This book is also an attempt to present multifarious roles being played by the Force in securing the unity and integrity of the country and thereby paving the way for all-round development of the nation. It will not only inspire the members of the Force but also cohesively connect people with the Force as they come to know CRPF from close quarters. Synergetic response so generated shall ever remain the key to success in emerging asymmetric conflict situations.

mantra

With a shift from direct to indirect warfare by adversaries, using proxy war tools to make an inroad into human terrain and exploiting various vulnerabilities, weakening the socio-economic and political grids through radicalization, infusing cognitive and behavioral distortion leading to violent outbursts, the situation of hybrid warfare on internal security front requires renewed response. CRPF has constantly upgraded its modus operandi, making best use of multi-agency support environment and public cooperation.
